Results in Music and Dramatic Festival

Didsbury Awarded Foster Shield; Neapolis, Ashe Shield

Undeterred by rain and snow on Friday, the annual Music and Dramatic Festival of Olds School Division No. 81 was successfully held at Didsbury, with 400 entries listed. Although some rural schools were unable to get in, entries were of a very excellent calibre and drew many expressions of praise and enjoyment from the various adjudicators, who all pronounced a great improvement in the quality over previous years.

With six adjudicators working steadily all day, the festival required use of the Theatre, United Church, Evangelical Church and three rooms at the Public School.

Adjudicators were: Miss Betty Mitchell, Mr. Norman Kennedy and Mr. Norman Bower, all of Calgary; Mrs. Jennie Smith, Innisfail; Mrs. J. E. Huget, Didsbury, and Mr. L. D. Wright, Olds. Mrs. John Ure and Mrs. A. Campbell, Carstairs, also assisted.

The E. P. Foster Shield for Town School obtaining highest number of points, was won by Didsbury with 226. Olds came second with 139 points. Neapolis was awarded the Ashe Shield for Rural School winning highest number of points, with 70. Zella was second with 43.

Margaret Adshead, of Didsbury, won the highest mark of the day, with a 98 in sight-singing.

The evening concert of all first-place winners was held in the theatre, which was packed to the doors over 150 persons being turned away. Dr. H. C. Liesemer was chairman.

Following are listed 1st, 2nd and 3rd prizewinners, together with the marks given:

Bergen Youth Dies From Saw Mishap

As the result of severe fractures of the skull and laceration of the face, from which he never regained consciousness, Clarence Mjolsness, 20, of Bergen district, four miles west of Sundre, died in the Olds Hospital on Friday morning last.

He was employed at his father's saw mill on the sawing crew. Lumber being cut for slabs was in the saw when one of the slabs broke from the log and drove full force at young Mjolsness striking him in the face. He was rushed to the Olds Hospital where he fought a losing battle for his life.

Mountain View Council Meeting

The regular meeting of the Mountain View Council was held at Olds on Saturday last, with Reeve Archer in the chair.

A by-law was passed to have a survey made of the proposed new road going north for 3-4 of a mile on the west side of the railway track at Olds to join the road leading north.

The secretary reported that he had written the Department with regard to the interim scheme whereby the municipality could do work on the market roads, payment of which would be credited to arrears of taxes, the government making a grant of one dollar for each two dollars worked out.

A reply had been received to the effect that the matter of aid to the municipal districts had not yet been outlined and no information could be given at present.

A letter with reference to the grasshopper situation was discussed. Farmers are asked to examine all headlands and roadsides and report discovery of grasshoppers to the municipal secretary. If it was found necessary, steps would be taken to provide poison-bait to control the pests.

The secretary reported that the amount of relief granted in April was $321.31.

Three applications for tax consolidation were approved and other routine matters were discussed.

Spokes Club Notes.

The debate "Canada's Greatest Need is Population" held Monday night proved an indisputable victory for the negative team of George Parsons and Tom Morris over the affirmative team of Lorne Frey and W. R. Hartley. Both sides had very convincing arguments, but the laurels finally went to the negative aggregation.

Farewell Presentation.

On Tuesday evening, May 9th, a large group of friends met at the Mountain View Bible School to say farewell to Miss Eby, who is leaving for Ontario, to express their appreciation of her services as teacher and preceptress at the Bible School. Also for her special interest in and help to the young people of the church and community.

There was a short program of gospel songs, several duets and speeches, a solo and special music, after which Miss Eby was presented with a purse of money. She gave a very fitting reply, expressing her appreciation of the gift and goodwill of the people, and her hope of returning sometime.

Refreshments were served and the group dispersed after singing "Blest be the tie that binds."

Mr. J. A. McGhee announces that it is anticipated that tickets for the special train to Calgary for the Royal visit will be on sale a week previous to the date (May 26). If you secure your ticket you will be assured of accommodation.

Win Awards at Alberta Festival.

Two young Didsbury musicians were successful in receiving awards at the Alberta Musical Festival which is being held at Calgary this week.

Miss Betty Boorman took first place in the cello senior class under 23 years, with 166 points.

Miss Gladys Geeson was placed fourth in the soprano class under 19 years, with 164 points. There was stiff competition in this class the winner receiving 169 marks.

Westerdale Council Meeting

Reeve George Clark presided at the regular meeting of the Westerdale municipal council held in Didsbury last Saturday. All councillors were present.

Arrangements were completed for the purchase of a new Diesel tractor for the road building equipment, the old gasoline tractor being traded in on the deal.

Councillor Hogg was appointed to supervise road work during the season.

The council arranged to make their annual tour of road inspection Monday and Tuesday of next week, after which the road program for the season will be arranged.

It was reported that the proposed scheme of gravelling the market road west of Didsbury was being held up on account of a notification from the Department that a scheme for assistance to municipal districts had not yet been outlined by the Government.

A letter had been received from E. P. Foster, M.L.A. stating that if the municipality would do work on the market roads and apply the work done on arrears of taxes, the Government would make a grant of $1.00 for each $2.00 expended. The council were prepared to gravel the road under this scheme but at present the Government are not prepared to make the grant.

Matters of relief, seed grain and routine business completed the meeting.

Will Discuss Forage Crops.

A meeting will be held in the main building of the Olds School of Agriculture on Monday, May 15th at 2 p.m. to discuss forage crop production. Mr. Hugh McPhail and Mr. James Murray will lead the discussion.

All are welcome, but those who recently procured seed from the municipalities are particularly requested to attend.

Golf Notes.

The play off in the 2 ball foursome was played last week end when Miss Anne Morton and J. A. McGhee won over Mrs. McGhee and George Law.

The President-Vice President competition is in progress and should be completed on May 11th.

Special Train to Calgary for Royal Visit.

The C.P.R. have arranged for a special train to Calgary on May 26 for the visit of the King and Queen to that city.

The train will leave Olds at 8 a.m. and Didsbury at 8 20 a.m., arriving in Calgary at 10 30 a.m.

Returning the train will leave at 8 30 p.m. the same day.

The fare from Didsbury will be $1.20 full fare and children 60c. Tickets will be on sale on May 24th, 25th and 26th and good for return up to midnight, May 27th.

Canada Comes First

During the Great War of 1914-18 many rumors were rife and stories in circulation of sedition, espionage, sabotage and threats of sabotage on the part of aliens then residents in this country and in some cases it was found necessary by the authorities to take some action to curb anti-British and anti-Canadian activities in the interests of the country as a whole.

Once again, now that the world is again passing through a period of international tension and while war clouds hover alarmingly over a large area of the globe, similar reports are coming to hand indicating that in some parts of this country subversive influences are at work in an effort to undermine democratic government here and to give aid and comfort to a potential enemy.

Fortunately it can be said at the outset that the great bulk of Canadians are loyal to their own country, to the form of government that has been bequeathed them by their forebears; to the fundamental principles of democracy on which this country has been founded and has been built, including those dearly bought privileges—freedom of speech, freedom of worship, freedom of the press and the right of free assembly.

To these tenets of the right to rule themselves and the right of individual freedom not only do the British-born elements of the community subscribe wholeheartedly and with passion, but also the vast majority of those who have come to this country from lands where other tongues are spoken, the great majority of whom have taken the oath to support and sustain the constitution of the country of their adoption, the hospitality of which they have sought and are enjoying, together with all the privileges and rights which go with Canadian citizenship.

During the Great War many of these people from other lands, including the countries with which Canada and Great Britain were at war at the time gave many evidences of their loyalty and love for the country which they had adopted. Many of them enlisted with the Canadian forces and served overseas, some of them with marked distinction, while others remained at home to render valuable services in steadying those who were inclined to waver between two allegiances. To-day, they and their children are honored and respected citizens of the country. Their loyalty to Canadian institutions and the Canadian form of democratic government is beyond all question and that applies to the overwhelming majority of these nationals.

In Our Midst

Unfortunately, however, Western Canada is giving harborage to a small minority, possibly a mere handful, who appear determined to do their utmost to exert a baneful influence upon their former compatriots, to create trouble for the authorities and who are taking advantage of the present uncertain international situation to undermine, in every possible manner, the government of the country.

Reports are ventilated in the press of the formation of secret, underground organizations of subversive character, of agitations being carried on by small groups and individuals, of seditious utterances, of espionage, of threats of sabotage and in one recent instance of a threat of death against the family of a war veteran who came out openly and condemned such nefarious activities.

Under all these circumstances and with such disquieting occurrences being ventilated it is not surprising that war veterans' organizations are passing resolutions calling upon the government of the country to take immediate steps to repress such activities and to demand the suppression of a foreign language newspaper published in this country which, if translations of its utterances are correct, is taking a strong anti-British stand in its editorials. While supporting the general principle of the freedom of the press, branches of the Canadian Legion take the stand that suppression of press, branches of the Canadian Legion take the stand that suppression of

It is not surprising, too, to find that such occurrences at home, coupled with the tension overseas, is serving as a stimulus to the registration of war veterans who are not only willing but anxious to serve the interests of their country at home as and when then aid may be required. Such incidents are serving but to rally them to come forward in increasing numbers and register, which is precisely what might be expected.

Action Is Warranted

Recent events give good ground for the government's action in stiffening the law respecting espionage and the government would be quite warranted in adopting some of the measures recommended by war veterans' organizations to curb and suppress subversive influence and activities calculated to jeopardize the interests of good loyal Canadians and democratic government in this country.

Just what measure should be taken with this end in view is for the government to decide but whatever steps may be taken, it can be assumed without hesitation that the authorities will be accorded general support by the great majority of Canadians, and not only those of British birth but of practically all those who have come here voluntarily from other lands and have made this country their own and of their descendants.

It must not be overlooked that those who have adopted Canada as their country, who have partaken of her hospitality and enjoyed her freedom and who have sworn allegiance to this country and its constitution have virtually said and mean it, that "Canada comes first".

Trade routes of Asia Minor, which connected the east with the west about 2000 B.C. were the first highways known.

More Than An Advantage

Aviation Can Also Be A Threat To Any Country

Aviation and wireless are the two inventions of our times that have been the great revolutionary improvements in human communication; they have brought the people of the world very close to one another, and at once to their advantage and their peril.

Mr. McTaggart Cowan, a visitor here, points the moral and adorns the tale of one of these inventions. He says that air passage from Vancouver to London, in 38 hours, will most likely be possible by 1941.

It is an extraordinary prophecy, but the statement of it, of course, is not startling at all. Mr. Cowan suggests, almost as a matter of course, that there will be another year of experimental flight and preparation, then a preliminary trans-Atlantic air-mail service and then mail and passenger service together.

The progress of the newly-inaugurated Trans-Canada air service is the promise and the pattern of the extended service. The sort of work Mr. Cowan is carrying on at Portwood is the indispensable complement of trans-continental and trans-ocean air service. Weather observation is an important phase of it.

Aviation is at once the promise and the threat of the future. In the moral sense, as well as materially, the heavier-than-air flying machine overleaps all the old frontiers of land and sea.

Saved A Life

Quick Delivery Of Letter In England Has Fortunate Result

Because a posted letter reached its destination in less than two hours, a woman's life was saved in England.

In the second morning mail a letter was received at the Gillingham (Kent) Police Station saying:

"By the time you receive this I shall be dead."

The writer gave her name and address.

An inspector saw from the postmark that the letter had been posted only two hours earlier, so the police rushed to the address and found a woman lying gassed on the floor. Now she has recovered in hospital.

In early times, according to Erasmus, a polite caller started his visit by kissing his host, his hostess, all their children, and the dog and cat.

KNOW RIGHT WAYS TO TRAIN YOUR DOG

Two little puppies—eager to grow up to be smart, well-behaved dogs! And so they will when properly trained.

It's not hard to make a puppy understand if you win his confidence during puppyhood. A good rule is not to punish him with the hand that feeds him. When necessary speak sharply to him or tap him lightly with a folded newspaper.

Time to begin your puppy's "grown-up" schooling when he's about nine months old. Easy then to teach such clever tricks as "Shake Hands!" When he's in a sitting position press your hand against the right side of his head. His right paw will naturally rise, then you quickly grab it and say "Shake Hands!" He'll soon get the idea.

Training goes more quickly, is more fun for you and doggy when he's in tiptop form. To have an alert healthy dog, know rules of diet, be able to recognize first signs of illness, especially distemper.

Our 32-page booklet tells you how to analyze symptoms and treat illnesses. Gives valuable instructions on feeding, training, housebreaking, grooming—simple directions for teaching your dog jolly tricks.

Send 15c in coin for your copy of "How To Choose And Care For Your Dog" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

The following booklets are also available at 15c in coins each:

SELECTED RECIPES

MARTHA WASHINGTON'S DEVIL'S FOOD

(Three Eggs)

- 4 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
- 2 1/2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter or other shortening
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 eggs, well beaten
- 1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt chocolate over boiling water; add 1 cup sugar and 1/2 cup buttermilk and stir over boiling water until sugar is dissolved. Cool.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda, and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add 1/2 cup sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat well. Add about 1/4 of flour mixture, mix thoroughly; add chocolate mixture and blend. Add remaining flour, alternately with buttermilk, a small amount at a time; beat very thoroughly after each addition. Add vanilla. Bake in greased 15 x 9 x 2-inch pan, in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 30 minutes, or until cake is done.

When cold, trim edges, cut in half crosswise, and put together as a two-layer cake, matching edges carefully. Spread tops and sides with fudge frosting. Or add chopped nut meats to part of frosting and use as filling.

This recipe has been adapted to modern measurements from Martha Washington's own recipe. It is an excellent choice for parties or for any occasion where a de luxe cake is desired.

Warmer Temperatures In Arctic Areas Confirmed By Findings of British Scientists

Because the average temperature around the Arctic is steadily rising it may be possible that in a hundred years or more people will take their summer vacations at the North Pole.

British scientists have now confirmed the fact that the Arctic regions in the vicinity of Spitsbergen are warming up at a rate of approximately one degree in two years. Since the first observations were made in 1910 the winter temperature in the Polar regions rose nearly 16 degrees.

It has also been found that the Polar icefields are gradually receding northwards and the soil which usually remained solidly frozen throughout the year now undergoes a partial thaw during the summer.

Among other facts supporting the theory of coming warmer temperatures in the Arctic is the diminishing amount of ice on the Barents Sea. During earlier observations this sea had only small patches of water free from ice. Now large spaces of open water occur at frequent intervals. Ice-breakers and other vessels that make regular journeys to the far north, are now able to penetrate with ease the regions that only 20 years ago could not be reached.

This great change has not been confined to areas north of the Russian coast. Evidence comes from parts of Greenland that the winter temperatures are higher and with considerably less snow than ever before.

When scientists first noticed this warming up process they were inclined to ascribe it to the increased North Atlantic Drift or to the change in the course of the warm current, the river of warmth. But it was found that temperatures became higher on land far removed from these possible influences, such as in the far northeast of Siberia and the well inland sections.

Many research workers think now that the world as a whole is getting warmer. One scientist put forward the theory that the presence of great quantities of carbon dioxide from burned coal may be responsible for the change while astronomers attribute it to the variations in the radio-active energy of the sun reaching the earth.

Has Many Drawbacks

Famous Singer Finds Grand Opera Career Is Very Lonely

Ambitious girls who contemplate adopting singing as a career are advised by Miss Bida Sayao, Brazilian lyric soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, to give up the idea and look for a husband.

"I saw a young girl in New York receiving a handsome prize and a contract with the Metropolitan Opera Company not long ago," said the singer. "I thought to myself: if she knew what was in store for her she wouldn't be in such a paradise—receptions, hard work and loneliness."

"It is horrible—the life of an opera singer," she exclaimed. "Making concert tours, one cannot remain long enough in any town to make friends. After the performance is over, the audience go home to their families and I go back to the hotel. It is a lonely life and marriage could mean the end of my career."

There were compensations, however, money, and the satisfaction of pleasing thousands of people with your songs, she admitted.

Holding The Holder

A concert was to be held in the village schoolroom, and the committee were holding a meeting concerning the entertainment.

Bill Johnson had been selected to act as doorman and general treasurer, and every one seemed in favor of it except Brown, who employed him as laborer, and, of course, knew his little ways.

"Why," argued the others, "Bill is just the man to hold the money."

"That's so," replied Brown. "No one could hold it better; but then who's to hold Bill?"

Would Retain New Guinea

Australia Wants To Keep Mandate Over This Territory

The Great War cost Australia £1,000,000,000, and about the only tangible prize the Australians received was the mandate over British New Guinea. Now, Australia does not want to give that territory back to the Germans, states W. L. Clark, in the Windsor Star.

Rt. Hon. W. H. Hughes explains that if the Allies had not come out of the war as the so-called victors, the Germans would have been looking for Australia and other areas to annex to the German flag. Now, because the shoe is on the other foot and Australia took New Guinea from Germany, he cannot see any reason why Australia should even be asked to give back the area.

Whichever country holds New Guinea also holds the key to Papua and Australia. If the Nazis should gain control of the island again, then they could menace Australia from much too close range to be comfortable.

The Australians are a long way from the rest of the world and they are constantly confronted with threats to their security. And, if New Guinea were made a naval and air base by an enemy country, then it would be possible for aviators to leave New Guinea, fly over Australia to drop their bombs and then fly back to the New Guinea base without landing. Australians don't want any monkey-shines like that.

The Rural Theatre

Growing Interest Is Shown In Amateur Dramatics

Of all the companies which are appearing in London in the Dominion Drama Festival none has aroused as much interest as that from the little rural village of Clive, Alberta. Its company of three and its director represent the province of Alberta.

The leading man, who put on an excellent performance in Chekov's play, "The Bear," is a farmer at Clive. The total population of the hamlet is 250. It all shows that there is no reason in Ontario why the competitions in the future should be confined to the urban areas. If Clive, why not Ailsa Craig, Komoka or Hyde Park, or one of the hundreds of villages and hamlets which dot Western Ontario?

As a matter of fact, in recent years there has been a growing interest in amateur dramatics through rural Ontario. In many centres through the winter there are performances put on in community and township halls. They help to pass the long winter evenings in the country, and make for community spirit. The Dominion Drama Festival officials, now that the Little Theatre is so well launched in the larger cities of Canada, might well consider ways and means of encouraging the movement in rural Ontario. Interesting Document

Historical Papers Come To Light After Three Hundred Years

An early twelfth-century document, which had not seen the light of day for nearly 300 years, is one of the latest of many papers of historic interest to have been rescued by the Records Preservation Section of the British Records Association.

The document, retrieved from a collection of family papers which were threatened with destruction, is a deed executed by Thurston, Provost of Beverley, who was elected Archbishop of York in 1114.

His election in that year establishes the age of this document executed by Thurston as Provost and not as Archbishop, as not less than 825 years.

The whole of this collection, numbering several dozen papers of early date concerning properties in the East Riding, has now been sent to the repository of the Yorkshire Archaeological Society in Leeds. London Sunday Times.

A Famous Herd

Britain's Only Wild Cattle Are Saved From Extinction

It is announced that the famous herd of Chillingham cattle, of Chillingham in Northumberland, has been saved by the organization of the Chillingham Wild Cattle Association and the creation of a fund that guarantees their maintenance for a term of years.

J. Russell Goddard, Curator of the Hancock Museum, Newcastle, talking about the herd said: "According to tradition the Chillingham cattle are directly descended from the indigenous wild cattle which roamed the British Isles in prehistoric times. Well, you can believe that, or not, but the herd has existed in Chillingham Park in Northumberland for some centuries. It is probably derived from animals living there when the park was enclosed some 700 years ago."

"The animals are clothed with a coat of long shaggy creamy-white hair which curls slightly, especially on the head and neck. The hair in the ears is red, and the naked muzzles are black. The horns, moderately long and curved, are creamy-white with black tips, and there is a tendency for the horns of the cows to be more strongly curved inwards above the head than those of the bulls."

"And the cattle are wild in many ways. They will not as a rule allow human beings to approach very near to them, and if they are followed they usually stampede. They object to their scent of man, and if one of their number is handled by human beings it is driven away from the herd, and if not actually gored or otherwise ill-treated is compelled to live alone for some time. The herd is governed by the strongest and the most vigorous bull, who is known as the 'King Bull', and his reign lasts so long as he can hold his own against the younger bulls."

"The cows always give birth to their calves in some secluded part of the park where there is good cover, and the calves remain hidden in the undergrowth for a long time—sometimes several weeks. Their mothers visit them from time to time to feed them."

"There are still one or two other herds of white park cattle remaining in the British Isles, but domesticated blood has been introduced into these from time to time in order to save them from extinction. There is, however, no record of the introduction of domesticated blood into the Chillingham herd; and in this respect the herd is unique and the most genuine of the white park cattle of the country. The herd now numbers 40 head, and the cattle appear to be healthy and in good condition." London Listener.

Memel Territory Annexed By Germany Has Long Been A Political Battleground

Memel, newest German conquest, has long been a battleground of European politics.

Lying along the northeast frontier of East Prussia and cut off from the rest of Germany by the "Polish Corridor," Memel Territory is an irregular sliver of land covering an area of about 1,099 square miles. The headquarters of the National Geographic Society describe it as a farming and cattle-raising region, which has a population of about 150,000 persons and includes the long-contested vital Baltic port of Memel—Klaipeda to the Lithuanians.

"Given up by Germany under the Versailles Treaty, Memeland was administered by the Allied Powers for several years after the World War," continues the bulletin.

"In 1924 following Lithuania's action of the previous year in taking over the area, Memel Territory—with certain autonomous rights—was legally ceded to that country in a League of Nations pact signed by Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan and Lithuania. Since then Memel has periodically rated news space as one of Europe's problem children."

"Such dramatic events as it has seen since the War, however, are mild compared with the past of this strip of land on the crossroads of international history."

"More than 700 years ago, before the town of Memel was founded, its site was a battleground between Lithuanian tribes and invading Teutonic Knights, a military and religious order of German Crusaders. Destroying the Lithuanian fortress which stood guard against Baltic pirates, the Knights built their own stronghold, following it with the town of 'Memelburg'."

"As an early trade centre, Memel grew and prospered, but found little peace. In the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth centuries it was attacked and burned time and again in a three-cornered tug-of-war between Lithuanians, Poles, and Teutons, the latter winning out in the Peace of Melno in 1422."

"For a short time in the 1600's, the Swedes called Memel theirs; later it was occupied by Russian troops. After sacking and burning the town they left it to the mercy of a plague. But the stubborn city again struggled to its feet. As a thriving Prussian town, it became, until the World War, German's northernmost Baltic port."

"To-day Memel is the Lithuanian Republic's only good port. Modernized by the Government, with new wharves, warehouses, docking machinery, grain elevators, and cold-storage equipment, the old city has been given a new lease on life, not only as a timber centre, but as a general transit port for foreign and domestic trade.

"Regular shipping service links it with British, Polish and Latvian ports—rail and airplane lines connect it with Berlin and Moscow."

Memel, which has now been occupied by Germany, was taken from the Reich under the Treaty of Versailles of June 28, 1919.

The transfer of Memel from administration by a conference of Ambassadors was legalized May 8, 1921 when Britain, France, Italy, Japan and Lithuania signed the Memel Convention. This made Memel a unit under Lithuanian sovereignty, but with a large measure of local autonomy which was to be guaranteed by the four large Powers.

Lithuania invoked martial law more than 12 years ago, but had little real trouble with Memel until Adolf Hitler's rise to power in 1933.

Alarmed at the flood of National Socialist propaganda, the Lithuanians then imposed a virtual dictatorship, arrested Dr. Ernst Neumann, local German leader in 1934, and dissolved his organization.

In November, on the heels of Munich, the Lithuanians lifted martial law. Dr. Neumann energetically picked up where he left off.

He organized a new party and carried the December elections, conducted virtually on a "back-to-the-Berch" issue. Germans now sit in 25 of the 29 seats in the Memel Diet.

On Dec. 30, the Memel Government ousted the Lithuanian State Police and decreed that Memelanders must be given precedence in Government jobs.

On March 16 the Lithuanian Governor of Memel convened the Diet for March 25, when it was expected to pass a law conferring executive powers on Dr. Neumann. But Germany decided to "liberate" the territory and it went back to Germany.

The Lithuanian Government, by its decision to surrender Memel bloodlessly, made it plain that it did not expect any help from the signatories of the Memel Convention.

History In The News

Newspapers Keeping The Country Informed On Fast-Moving Events

As yet the systematic perusal of the daily newspapers has not been listed on the official educational curricula of Ontario, but the Department might do worse than inaugurate some such plan, particularly in momentous times such as the present, when history, and often dramatic history, is being made from day to day and from hour to hour.

In such case, standard textbooks are out of date, in many essential particulars, long before they can be revised and reprinted. As Dean Ackerman of Columbia's School of Journalism remarked not long ago, the historians of the present era are using, and must use, to an increasing extent, the records compiled by the Fourth Estate as a basis of their more permanent chronicles.

In a world of swift-moving events it becomes steadily more important that people should know what is going on and the newspapers of Canada, as has been well demonstrated within the last few weeks and months, are equipped to supply an actual news service as distinct from mere propaganda or hearsay information that stands second to none on this continent or in the world. Westcott Notes.

The Westcott W.I. met on Thursday last at Mrs. C. Vogel's with a good attendance. The roll call, "Hints on Sewing," introduced the topic of "Handicrafts" taken by Mrs. Bowlen. A summary of the lessons on glove-making was given and a pattern left with the secretary. Mrs. Bowlen then exhibited gloves in the making and also the finished article from this pattern. In the 75-cent contest Mrs. Ed. Klinck won first prize and Mrs. John Spillman second. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harry Steckly on June 1st instead of May 25th.

Rugby Notes

With an attendance of 24 the W.I. meeting for May was held at the home of Mrs. Wahl. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Evans occupied the chair. Plans for holding a Bazaar on June 21st were made and conveners for the different departments chosen. A Baby Clinic will be held sometime in August. Reports from the Education and Agriculture conveners were given, and a most humorous recitation entitled "Since Ma has Upped her Hair" was given by Mrs. Wahl. Next month's meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Youngs.

70-Cent Price Held Insufficient By Elevator Man

Limiting Deliveries to 5000 Bus.
Disregards Economic Factors

William McG. Rait, member of the North-West Grain Dealers' Association and member of the Bracken delegation which waited on Premier King and the Federal cabinet at Ottawa, made the following statement with reference to the Government's amended wheat legislation: "The changes in agricultural legislation, especially the increase in the basic wheat price to seventy cents, are a partial recognition of the justice of the claims put forward by the Bracken Committee. I do not consider this price satisfactory, however, as it is not sufficient to maintain the wheat industry on the Prairies.

"The proposal to limit the price benefit to a maximum of 5,000 bushels delivered by an individual farmer is an arbitrary decision. It gives no consideration to the economic factors surrounding larger scale farm operations and will bear heavily on a large and very essential class of farmers. Furthermore, if open market prices remain below 70 cents, these larger scale farmers will be selling their excess over 5,000 bushels in competition with the Wheat Board.

"Assistance to farmers with poor crops is a welcome feature of the legislation. It should be emphasized, however, that all these are emergency measures. The more permanent problems have yet to be studied and solved. A determined effort must be made to reduce farm costs and expand markets so as to prevent the recurrence of such emergencies in the future."

Will Rogers at the Movies

The old-fashioned election-night torchlight procession that used to be such a robust and thrilling characteristic of the American scene is a highlight of George Ade's uproarious classic, "The County Chairman," starring Will Rogers in the title role.

At the Opera House this weekend, the 20th Century-Fox film rivals the hugely successful "Judge Priest" and "David Harum" as a made to order vehicle for America's beloved humorist. In "The County Chairman" Rogers is seen as a wily, lovable county boss, half diplomatic and half rustic. He wins elections and arranges romances with equal skill, and no one, not even his rivals, can resist him.

Future Of Canada

Prediction Made That Dominion Is On Eve Of Era Of Prosperity

Shrewd observers, watching Canada closely, are expressing the opinion that the Dominion is on the eve of an era of prosperity.

One prominent expert in regard to investments contends that in some measure it is in the nature of a reaction to the events in Europe. Apart from the stimulus that re-armament programs have given to certain manufactures and the demand for raw materials, he points out that, thanks to the policy of European dictators, capital is being driven from the Continent and is seeking a refuge in Canada, where more peaceful conditions prevail.

In like manner craftsmen skilled in certain trades, who have been compelled to seek homes where they may enjoy the blessings of peace, are moving to Canada, bringing with them their expert knowledge and skill. Already there has been talk of developing the pottery industry in Canada, and only the other day it was mentioned in the Quebec Legislative Council that International Foods, Ltd., a Czech-Slovakian concern, proposed to establish its plant at Cap de la Madeleine, in the province. In this way does the sheltering arm receive its reward. (Canada's Weekly (London).

Gave Services Free

Famous Surgeon Was More Humane Than New York Doctors

On September 10, 1930 a group of newspapers offered a reward of $10,000 for the capture of the person who threw acid on a 13-year-old girl playing on West 109th street, New York. No surgeon would remove the scars from her body unless the fee of $5,000 was guaranteed. And so during the past five years she has been wearing long-sleeved dresses to hide the scars as she peddled cigarettes in the Stork Club. A year ago a famous surgeon was dining there and learned her story. He told her to visit his office. Three days after that visit the scars were expertly removed—and Christine Lake is no longer a cigarette girl at the Stork Club. She recently realized a life-long ambition—being a beauty specialist. The surgeon wouldn't accept a cent for his services.

Another Doll Collection

Woman In Florida Has Hundreds In Interesting Exhibit

The international doll house—"doll heaven," somebody called it once—boasts one of the largest and most varied collection of dolls in the United States. Mrs. Jack Baughman is mother to the dolls, which she has gathered from all over the world and exhibits in the little Florida cattle town of St. Cloud. She has hundreds of the little figures, filling cases and lining the walls of her international doll house.

Some are exhibited in miniature display. A few of the dolls are old and valuable. One is labeled an "Italian Lady of Quality". Her clothes, embroidered with gold, were copied from a painting by Pisanello, 15th century artist. She wears a girdle and neck-piece of rubies, emeralds and diamonds.

An odd pair is Amanada Button and her son, Ezra. Their entire clothing consists of 10 pounds of metal, ivory and bone buttons—all colors, sizes and shapes.

The collection shows the progress of doll-making since time began. The dolls represent many national and international personalities who were famous years ago. Among them are Queen Wilhelmina, Lillian Gish, Jenny Lind and Lillian Russell.

One display features a stained glass window which was brought here from Rome. It is the background of a wedding scene complete in every detail, including the priest with his robes and heavy gold cross.

A few of the dolls date back to the early part of the 18th century. A collection of old Colonial dolls are dressed in their original clothing.

Another display is an African scene with a stained wooden Ubangi and a fierce looking African drummer. Both dolls were made in Africa. Mrs. Baughman said. Other displays are a covered wagon scene, Bahama spongers, and a display of dolls of all nations.

Gardening

No Hurry

The average amateur starts operations days or sometimes weeks too soon and stops long before satisfactory operations can be continued. With the general run of vegetables and flowers, there is no advantage in getting things in while there is still danger of serious frost. One setback from a cold day or two completely offsets the early start and may indeed mean replanting the whole garden. This caution of course does not apply to the hardiest vegetables or flowers or to grass seed. These should be sown just as soon as grass is fit to work.

A Short Cut

For a short cut the gardener is advised to purchase a certain quantity of started plants of both flowers and vegetables. These are usually purchased from the greenhouse, florist or seed house. It is important to get the varieties wanted and on this account it is an excellent idea to consult a good Canadian seed catalogue before placing the order. The gardener can look over the various varieties offered in the catalogue and should make sure that the particular varieties wanted are in the boxes of plants bought.

Among the flowers which can be purchased as started plants are cosmos, zinnias, petunias, marigolds, salpiglossis, nicotiana and a host of others. Cabbages, celery, tomatoes, head lettuce, egg and pepper plants in the vegetable line are all sold as started plants.

Most For Money

Those with only a little land to spare should concentrate on those vegetables which give the biggest returns for the smallest space occupied. Among such kinds are beans, carrots, onions, lettuce, swiss chard, spinach, cucumbers and beets. In the lesser-known vegetables are leeks, egg and pepper plants, broad beans and cos lettuce. These can all be grown in almost any part of Canada. Experts advise the inclusion of something new in the vegetable line each year so that variety can be gradually widened.

YOUNG "BASQUE" FROCK, SO NEW

By Anne Adams

Girls, here's a brand new silhouette to satisfy your desire for change! It's the Basque Dress—the prettiest and most significant style of the spring, as interpreted by Anne Adams. You'll love the way the bodice hugs the figure and narrows the waistline to reel-like slimmness. Then, from the hips down there's such exquisite, circular fullness! Although this frock is so radiantly new, it's very easy to make! (Count the few pattern pieces!) Such choice as you have, too—with scalloped or sweetheart neck, and puffed, slashed-in sleeves or open cap sleeves! Also you may have pointed or rounded waistline, each version flattering. Choose gayest of prints!

Pattern 4063 is available in junior and misses' sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 14 takes 3 yards 39 inch fabric and 2 yards lace.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send order to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermot Ave. E., Winnipeg.

Veteran Recovers Voice

The worst of the World War is over for John M. Chandler, 39 years old, of Excelsior Springs, Mo. He can talk. Chandler came out of the Argonne forest in 1918 with a head injury. The shock rendered him mute. Recently he awoke one morning with a "peculiar feeling in my head. I felt like I could talk again," he said. "I tried and I could."

Large diamonds are "finger-printed". Flaws are catalogued so carefully that a stone can be recognized even if it has been recut.

Sartorial Courtesies

Detroit Paper Tells Of Incident That Clears Matter Up

What a well dressed American should wear in the presence of British royalty when it visits this country, appears to be agitating the minds of a considerable number of our democratic countrymen, says the Detroit Free Press.

They might profit by an incident that occurred a good many years ago.

A group of American bishops of the Anglican faith were invited to England by a group of English bishops. Aware that bishops in England wear knee-breeches the American prelates supplied themselves with abbreviated trousers, as a mark of courtesy to their hosts. What was their surprise, when they were met at the dock in England by a committee of bishops, wearing long trousers in honor of their guests!

American diplomats formerly were advised that the only uniform they needed was "the plain habiliments of an American gentleman." And that is all any American will need on the occasion of the forthcoming visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to the United States.

This Changing World

Makes It Almost Impossible To Be Positive About Anything

Willard W. Beatty, director of education for the U.S. Office of Indian Affairs, at Cleveland, Ohio, said that health charts have been discredited by doctors because there is no "normal" pattern that can be used on age and height.

"People are as the Lord made them," he said, "and no amount of stuffing or starving is going to change them if they're built that way."

The changing world, he said, has made it dangerous to say one thing is good and another is bad. He pointed to the once prevalent belief that good teeth were dependent upon regular brushing and said the Eskimos, who have excellent teeth, will lose them if they eat the white man's candy, no matter how much they brushed them.

Beatty, speaking before 500 members of the Child Health Association, urged educators and doctors to recognize the wide range of what is normal.

A Valuable Industry

Japanese Reaping Annual Seaweed Harvest Along West Coast

Rubber-boated Japanese men and women are engaged in their annual seaweed harvest along the rocky shore of Point Grey, residential area of Vancouver which forms the south shore of Burrard Inlet.

Seaweed, whose mineral content exceeds that of most garden vegetables, is an important item in Japanese culinary needs. Taken from the barnacled rocks, it is dried and boiled to a gelatinous mixture, used mostly for thickening soups.

In Japan, seaweed is cultivated and edible seaweed farms have grown into a million-dollar industry.

TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

by DR. J. W. S. McCULLOUGH

HOW IT STARTED

The universal totem of the barber, the pole painted in alternate stripes of red and white is familiar to everyone. Does everyone know how it started?

The history of this pole dates back from the Middle Ages when the barber was the only surgeon.

In the reign of Edward IV, a charter of incorporation was given to the "Freeman of the Mystery of the Barbers of the City of London using the Mystery of the Faculty of Surgery." Thus the art of the surgeon and the trade of the barber were combined. Governors of this combination were appointed and this step may be said to have been the inception of what is now the Royal College of Surgeons of England.

In the reign of Henry VIII, the barbers and surgeons of London were merged into one body under the name of the "Mystery and Community of the Barbers and Surgeons of London" and Holbein the celebrated artist, made a painting of the event.

The charter of King Henry was confirmed by Charles I., but in the reign of George II., the old union of the Barbers and Surgeons was dissolved and henceforth the surgeons of England were left to struggle along as best they could. They haven't made such a bad job of it.

The colours of the barber's pole represent incidents of far away times; the red signifies blood, the white the bandage.

But the barber-surgeon, if divorced from his former occupation in England, survived for a long time in other lands. As late as 1846 in the south of Spain, barber shops generally had a notice that the barber did mid-wifery and surgery as well as shaving, and far more recently Sir John Simon says that "he had the honour of being shaved by a barber who had Prof. Virchow's (the great German pathologist's) latest publications on the book-shelf beside his basin."

A True Benefactor

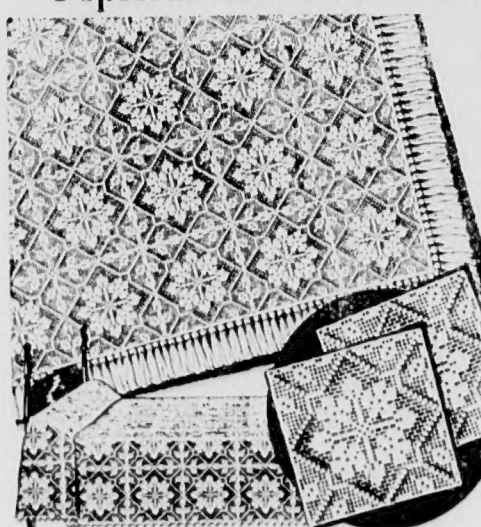

Late Dr. Park Made New York A Healthful City

For the fact that New York is one of the most healthful of the large cities of the world, Dr. William Hall-ock Park, who died at the age of 76, deserves a large share of the credit, states the New York Herald Tribune. Time was when diphtheria and cholera infantum took a dreadful toll among children. Dr. Park put an end to that. He attacked disease on many fronts and, although he did not find all the answers, he made progress in virtually every field of research which he invaded. At the beginning of his service of 43 years as director of the bureau of laboratories of the Department of Health, New York was, in all truth, a disease-ridden city; the history of those 43 years is one of patient experiment and steady advancement. He left no fortune, but he left a name that is an honor to medicine. He was one of the true benefactors of mankind.

Scientists usually are the first to report earthquakes, but the Manila earthquake of 1937 was the exception to the rule. An extensive telegraph set-up, carrying Chinese-Japanese war stories, actually scooped the seismograph stations.

The hesperornis, a bird that lived on earth millions of years ago, could progress only by swimming. It could neither walk nor fly.

Popcorns Accent Filet Crochet

PATTERN 6305

The popcorn detail of this filet square adds an interesting raised effect to the spread, scarf or pillow formed from it. Here's the way to have accessories that are different yet inexpensive to make—you just use mercerized string. Begin crocheting your squares now. They measure 10 inches in string—smaller in finer cotton. Pattern 6305 contains instructions and chart for making the square; materials needed; illustration of square and of stitches.

LITTLE REST DAY OR NIGHT

Woman with Severe Neuritis

For the benefit of others who may be troubled with the complaint she suffered from, a grateful woman writes:

"Last May I had a very severe attack of neuritis in the leg, which made it impossible for me to rest during the day, or to get regular sleep at nights to say nothing of the intense pain.

"Various medicines gave me very little relief, and a friend advised me to give Kruschen a trial, as she had derived benefit from it whilst suffering similarly. I am so thankful that I took her advice. From the very first bottle I felt relieved, and now I am quite free from pain, and get a good night's sleep."—(Mrs. H.C. Neuritis, like rheumatism, lumbago, and sciatica, is often caused by needle-pointed uric acid crystals, which form as the result of sluggish eliminating organs. Kruschen helps to convert these crystals into a harmless solution, which is removed through the natural channels.

Lynn Dana had written Sally Ann the night before: "As to your question I don't know. Our queer dark one, beyond all possibility of a doubt, quite literally worships the air he flies in. As for the lad—he approves her utterly for her courage and cleverness, but he's flint-hard and bat-blind. If her heart's on her sleeve, he doesn't see it, and she has a nice young dignity and reticence."

Something did not quite suit Gunnar in Hermod's rhythm as they flew up the valley, and they came down at Oakland before crossing the bay. It needed only a minor adjustment, but would take a little time.

"Tea, while we wait," the ace said. He hailed a taxi and put her in it, and they drove a couple of blocks. "Here! This will do!"

It was a shabby little eating-house with a menu written in chalk on a blackboard at the door.

"Wait!" Gunnar directed the taxi-driver.

"Sure," he said amiably. "Comin' in myself. 'Lo, Lena!" he greeted a big-busted woman with dyed hair. "How's tricks?" He sat down in the last seat before the counter which brought him close to the tiny kitchen from which issued heat and smells.

The fliers sat near the door. "Tea and bread, honey," he ordered briefly.

The woman slammed down their plates and cups and Gunnar was buttering a thick slice of bread.

Their taxi-driver had risen and slouched into the back room, and now a little man in an enveloping apron came out. He had scared eyes and an unimportant chin, and he was staring at them. He spoke over his shoulder. "Honest? You ain't stringin' me, Nick?"

The woman said something to him and he popped out of sight like a gopher into its hole, and the taxi-driver came back, grinning.

It was the usual thing to be recognized. Almost everywhere they went someone knew Gunnar Thorwald at once, and then there would be nudges and whispers.

Other customers came in. The woman served them truculently. Her husband came edging out of the kitchen again to stare at Gunnar and Sarah Lynn. He had a droll little pot-bellied figure and pipe-stem legs, and he stood nervously rubbing his hands over his dirty apron.

"I just gott ast you," he began in a hissing whisper. "Nick, he's a great one to kid you along. On the level, are you Gunnar Thorwald and—that girl?"

They were, they told him, Sarah Lynn gently, the Norwegian ace with a sudden friendliness which surprised her.

The wife wheeled about, snarling. "You get back where you belong!" She took an order. "Stack a' wheats!" "Ham and!"

Without a word he scuttled back into his unsavory domain.

Gunnar finished his bread and honey and drank off his tea. His eyes were narrowed to a gleaming blue slit. Then he stood up and walked back through the stuffy room, past the hunched figures feeding at the counter, and stuck his head into the steam and stench.

"So it interests you flying."

"Interests—say, boy! I read every scrap I can lay hands on, and I see every movie that's got flying in it, and when I stand here, hashin' and hear 'em go by in the sky," he stopped, gulping, his Adam's apple moving convulsively in his stringy throat.

The wife came back with a pile of soiled plates and pushed rudely past the flier. "Pop, you tend to business! Tea-bone and country fry!"

The Norwegian looked through and beyond her. "Yourself would wish to fly."

The little man put down a long pronged fork and clasped small pudgy hands with broken and black-rimmed nails. "Just once before I die I wouldn't ast nothin' more. I wouldn't—"

"Come, then!"

It was all done in a flash. The aviator's arm which seemed to lift him bodily out of his fetid trench and propel him through the tiny restaurant and into the taxi, the driver, wiping his mouth, grinning, running after, jumping into his seat, Sarah Lynn, delighted, aghast, following Gunnar, the staring customers, the woman emitting shrill staccato cries—

"Pop! Pop! You come back here! You crazy? Want to break your fool neck? Pop!" She began to whimper and storm. "You let loose a' him, Mister! I'll call a cop! You can't kidnap!"

They were rattling down the street, the little man wedged in between them, the unhealthy pallor of his face suffused with scarlet excitement.

Sarah Lynn drew Gunnar aside while the Hermod was being wheeled to the line. "It's a gorgeous thing to do and I adore it! Look at him almost expiring with bliss! But, Gunnar, he looks so sick he has such a wretched color, and see how he breathes. I mean suppose he has a weak heart?"

She put an anxious hand on his arm.

He looked down at her, his gaze at once stern and gay, reckless and reasonable. "Thinking still with fear of death? You have not listened, then, while I told you? Life is one adventure; death is another! To be alive—that is nothing, unless life is good. Is he living in that foul hole? Better death in clean air! We go!"

CHAPTER IX.

The Gate was richly golden, bathed and burnished in a strong metallic radiance, and the sun was sinking into the western sea in a molten blaze of unbelievable glory.

Pop perched on the edge of his seat, looking off, looking down. His unpleasant pallor was enhanced and there was a pinched look about his nose and mouth. He was breathing badly, but his eyes were enraptured. He caught her scrutiny upon him and smiled at her, drawing a long, quivering breath, tipping his head back, relaxing like a swimmer about to float on a gentle sea.

The Hermod swooped and swirled like a gull, dipped and rose again. Sarah Lynn pulled herself to attention. This proud dominion over the fowl of the air and the fish of the sea was not a bird-like inconse-quence but a business of infinite important detail, of levers and gears and hair-trigger precision. The seagulls, white dots against green-blue, far below them now, flew because they couldn't help it, but men flew because they had conquered.

The taxi-driver was waiting for them. "Hi, Pop," he said, "you better beat it! Lena, she's fit to be tied!"

The little man tried to thank Gunnar but he made only a series of embarrassed gurgles.

The flier gave him a comradely clap on the shoulder. "It is good! Now you remember always?"

Sarah Lynn escorted him back to the restaurant.

Driving back to Danavale she said again, "I want to come down in a parachute, Gunnar."

"Yes. After you have soloed for a month. Then I will take you."

"Take me?"

"You shall do it from the Hermod. I will remove the door, for your Department of Commerce, Conrad Jordan has told me, makes you wear two chutes when it is the jump of intention."

"It is good! Now you remember always?"

"Oh? In case one doesn't work? And it would be too bulky to get out through the door? But after I'm once out, it's perfectly simple, isn't it, Gunnar? Just to wait long enough to be clear of the ship before I pull the string?"

"That is all," he agreed. His mouth looked rather grim.

"Gunnar, did you mind when you did it?"

"On the ground, before, I had fear like a great sickness. In the air it left me."

Le Roy suggested her first flight alone in secret but she decided against it. It was due Great-granny and Uncle Lynn and old Penny if they wanted to come, and at the last instant she whispered to her young brother Bill. Bill's freckles, standing out like brown polka-dots on his pale face were the last things she thought about as she walked over to the plane.

She slipped round to the further side, unobserved, and laid her face against the Chinese lacquer red. "Don't be jittery, darling," she whispered. "I won't even nick your nail-polish. I promise! I'll take you up like a swallow and bring you down like a leaf."

She got into the cockpit and went through the routine she had rehearsed again and again. It had become an integral part of her mental process.

The assistant sprang aside from the propeller.

"Clear!"

Clear, oh, clear! Forever and forever, life for the queer dark Dana girl, shining and clear.

Sarah Lynn pushed her throttle to the stop and Ladybug went forward with a roar, left the ground and be-

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are cross, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

gan to climb into the wind. Sarah Lynn reached the altitude she wanted, readjusted her stabilizer to take the load off the joy stick, leveled off, banked to the left, building her own road as she flew. She exulted. "No matter what comes to me, if I live to be a hundred, I can never be as happy as this instant!"

The little ship quivered under her hands, sprang forward at her touch, dipped, soared. It was a living thing, vibrant, sensitive, delicate and dear, helpless in her care, depending upon her courage and skill.

"I'll take care of you!" Sarah Lynn pledged her plane.

Total Seems Large

Although Production Of Snuff In Canada Varies Each Year

The Toronto Star says the production of snuff in Canada varies from year to year, averaging 1,000,000 pounds in 1928-30, and in 1937 over 825,000 pounds, worth in that year over a million dollars at the factory, and costing the ultimate consumer much more than that. Who is it consumes all this snuff? Even making allowances for its use as an insecticide as well as for human consumption, the total seems impressively large.

In England, about 76 per cent. of the non-fatal and 60 per cent. of the fatal road accidents occur on roads with a restricted speed limit of 30 miles per hour.

Spring Tips For Motorists

Advice On Proper Care To Be Taken Of Cars In The Spring

1. Be sure and change from light oil and grease to heavier grades for warm-weather driving.
2. It's simple to prevent your car's cooling system from over heating this summer. Drain your anti-freeze and have your garageman pour a can of corrosion preventive into the radiator. Car manufacturers say radiators should be rust-proofed now.
3. Check your brakes now after a long winter. Remember, even with good brakes, a car travelling 40 miles an hour can not be stopped under 115 feet. Have your garageman "Pull the wheels" to ensure proper check.
4. Do you know that almost 60% of fatal accidents occur at night, although there is only one out of every four cars on the road. Have your headlights checked for correct focusing and the reflectors cleaned. Replace worn-out or dim headlight bulbs without delay.
